copter royale tips: Symposium Transsonicum II K. Oswatitsch, D. Rues, 2012-12-06 The first Symposium Transsonicum took place in Aachen thirteen years ago during a period of decreasing governmental. and industrial. support for transonic flow research. Since then, there has been a strong revival. in interest in transonic flow research so that the number of participants at the second symposium remained about the same as at the first even in spite of tight financial. means and limited governmental. support. During both meetings the number of participants reached the upper limit of the number desirable for such a symposium. Participants came from all over the world and there was a well balanced distribution of participants from all countries interested in transonic flow research. The discussions - mostly conducted in English - were stimulating and there was a great deal. of interest in the lectures as was shown by the good attendance even during the last session on Saturday morning.

copter royale tips: Leave No Man Behind George Galdorisi, Thomas Phillips, 2009-01-16 Beginning with the birth of combat aircraft in World War I and the early attempts to rescue warriors trapped behind enemy lines, Leave No Man Behind chronicles in depth nearly one hundred years of combat search and rescue (CSAR). All major U.S. combat operations from World War II to the early years of the Iraq War are covered, including previously classified missions and several Medal-of-Honor-winning operations. Authors George Galdorisi and Tom Phillips (both veteran U.S. Navy helicopter pilots) highlight individual acts of heroism while telling the big-picture story of the creation and development of modern CSAR. Although individual missions have their successes and failures, CSAR, as an institution, would seem beyond reproach, an obvious necessity. The organizational history of CSAR, however, is not entirely positive. The armed services, particularly the U.S. Air Force and Navy, have a tendency to cut CSAR at the end of a conflict, leaving no infrastructure prepared for the next time that the brave men and women of our armed forces find themselves behind enemy lines. The final chapter has not yet been written for U.S. combat search and rescue, but in view of the life-saving potential of these forces, an open and forthright review of U.S. military CSAR plans and policies is long overdue. Beyond the exciting stories of heroic victories and heartrending defeats, Leave No Man Behind stimulates debate on this important subject.
