flaw manual ebook: Jack London, Enhanced Ebook Cecelia Tichi, 2015-09-09 Jack London (1876-1916) found fame with his wolf-dog tales and sagas of the frozen North, but Cecelia Tichi challenges the long-standing view of London as merely a mass-market producer of potboilers. A onetime child laborer, London led a life of poverty in the Gilded Age before rising to worldwide acclaim for stories, novels, and essays designed to hasten the social, economic, and political advance of America. In this major reinterpretation of London's career, Tichi examines how the beloved writer leveraged his written words as a force for the future. Tracing the arc of London's work from the late 1800s through the 1910s, Tichi profiles the writer's allies and adversaries in the cities, on the factory floor, inside prison walls, and in the farmlands. Thoroughly exploring London's importance as an artist and as a political and public figure, Tichi brings to life a man who merits recognition as one of America's foremost public intellectuals. This enhanced e-book edition of Jack London features significant archival motion picture footage. Eight ebook enhancements take readers into the motion-picture world of Jack London's 1900s--to the very sights that impacted his bestselling writings. Readers get front row seats to the terrifying San Francisco earthquake of 1906, to the Hawaiian beachfront where London first saw the Waikiki surf riders, to ringside where prizefighters battled for championships. These and other historic film footage clips make this an ebook for the twenty-first century.

flaw manual ebook: Mosses from an Old Manse Nathaniel Hawthorne, 2013-11-14 This is the annotated edition including both volumes of the original book, a rare biographical essay on the author, as well as an essay by Edgar Allan Poe on Hawthorne's tale-writing. In 1846 the Mosses from an Old Manse was published in New York in two volumes, which contain, on the whole, his best work in short stories, and are prefaced by one of his most delightful essays, The Old Manse. In some of them, it may be, the allegory is too apparent, but in general they are very deep and searching studies of the heart and conscience. Among the best are Young Goodman Brown, Roger Malvin's Burial, Rappaccini's Daughter, which is usually placed highest, and Drowne's Wooden Image. The Birthmark and The Artist of the Beautiful also rank high in the estimation of critics. The Celestial Railroad is a clever satire on modern religion; The Intelligence Office, The Procession of Life, and Earth's Holocaust are conceits with a burden of symbolic meaning. The Old Apple-Dealer is a study of a character with the least possible amount of coloring. P.'s Correspondence is mainly interesting, perhaps, for the curious speculation, under the guise of a lunatic's vagaries, on what age might have made of those early poets of the century who died young or in middle life, - especially of what its sobering and conservative tendencies would have done for Byron, Burns, Shelley, and Keats. The Hall of Fantasy, A Select Party, and A Virtuoso's Collection are ingeniously executed fancies. Mrs. Bullfrog is a light, humorous sketch, and Fire Worship and Buds and Bird Voices are delightful essays.
