government budgeting ebook: Digital Finance and Regulatory Competition Lucien van Romburg, 2024-11-21 International Banking and Finance Law Series#39 Digital Finance and Regulatory Competition Regulating Distributed Ledger Technology-Based Financial Products and Services Lucien J. van Romburg Governments, like people, compete against each other but do so in a bid to achieve their myriad socio-economic and political aims. In the operation of regulatory competition, governments may create rules with the intent of attracting capital and labour to their domains. In the twenty-first century, regulatory competition takes on a new dimension in the face of the rapid advancement of digital finance. The role of financial technology (fintech) as a tool through which governments achieve their aims cannot be overstated. The proliferation of distributed ledger technologies (DLT) marked a watershed moment for technological advancement and presented a ripe opportunity for governments to defend their competing claims for resources. In this context, this book tackles the question of whether the world's leading financial centres – Hong Kong, London, and New York – engaged in regulatory competition against each other through their creation of rules to govern DLT-based financial products and services during the period 2008 until 2022. In answering this question, this book provides a cohesive framework for understanding the influence of regulatory competition on rule creation using a narrative lens based on a comparative study of legal, regulatory, and policy instruments. The lessons distilled from the analysis provide reasoned observations on the potential implications for the future regulation of financial products and services underlined by novel technologies. The topics covered in this book which concern the timely intersection of regulatory competition and fintech include the: emergence and impact of DLT, its core features, types, use cases and applications in the financial services industry; origins of regulatory competition, from Charles Tiebout to the regulatory races to the top and bottom; formulation of a definitional matrix which provides a cohesive framework for understanding regulatory competition; regulatory frameworks for DLT-based financial products and services in Hong Kong, London, and New York; and potential impact of regulatory competition on the future regulation of financial products and services underlined by novel technologies. This book represents one of the very few studies comprehensively tackling the topic of regulatory competition through the guise of fintech. It will deepen the understanding of lawmakers, policymakers, and regulators concerning the influence and significance of regulatory competition. The discussion surrounding the regulation of DLT-based financial products and services will also be of interest to practitioners, students, and general readers alike.

government budgeting ebook: Forecasting Government Budgets Aman Khan, Kenneth A. Kriz, 2022-12-15 Forecasting is integral to all governmental activities, especially budgetary activities. Without good and accurate forecasts, a government will not only find it difficult to carry out its everyday operations but will also find it difficult to cope with the increasingly complex environment in which it has to operate. This book presents, in a simple and easy to understand manner, some of the commonly used methods in budget forecasting, simple as well as advanced. The book is divided into three parts: It begins with an overview of forecasting background, forecasting process, and forecasting methods, followed by a detailed discussion of the actual methods in Parts I, II, and III. Part I discusses a combination of basic time series models such as percentage average, simple moving average, double moving average, exponential moving average, double as well as triple, simple trend line, time-series with cyclical variation, and time-series regression, with single and multiple independent variables. Part II discusses some of the more advanced, but frequently used time series models, such as ARIMA, regular as well as seasonal, Vector Autoregression (VAR), and Vector Error Correction (VEC). Part III provides an overview of three of the more recent advances in time series models, namely ensemble forecasting, state-space forecasting, and neural network. The note shows that many governments have not been able to harness the full potential of digitalization. Governments could play important role to facilitate digital adoption by intervening both on supply (investing in infrastructure) and demand side (increase internet affordability). The

The note also emphasizes that digitalization is not a substitute for good governance and that comprehensive reform plans embedded in National Digital Strategies (NDS) combined with legal and institutional reforms are needed to ensure that governments can reap full benefits from digitalization and manage the risks appropriately.

government budgeting ebook: Green Digital Finance and Sustainable Development Goals Farhad Taghizadeh-Hesary, Suk Hyun, 2022-07-01 This book aims to fill the literature gap on digital instruments and FinTech in enhancing green finance. Technological innovation can increase transparency, accountability, and speed, decentralize the financial system, improve risk management, increase competition, lower costs, improve efficiency, increase cross-sectoral collaboration and integration, and scale up green finance. Artificial intelligence (AI), distributed ledger technologies (DLT) or blockchain, peer-to-peer lending platforms, big data, Internet-based and mobile-based payment platforms, Internet of Things (IoT), matchmaking platforms including crowdlending, tokenizing green assets are potential means to scale up the green finance for achieving the SDGs. The COVID-19 pandemic, the economic downturns, and the uncertainties shrank the new investments in renewable energy projects globally. Low investment in renewable energy projects could threaten the expansion of green energy needed to provide energy security and meet SDG7 and SDG13. Investments in renewable energy projects are scarce because of several risks and a low rate of return. Although several new green financing solutions such as green bonds, green banks, green credit guarantee, carbon taxation, carbon trade, village funds, and community trust funds have been established in different countries, these are insufficient, and alternative ways to finance projects are required. The book provides several high-quality studies on utilizing digitalization, FinTech, financial innovations, and other new technologies to fill the finance gap of green projects to meet the SDG goals. The chapters are written by scholars in diverse countries and regions and include practical policy recommendations.
