Key Components of the Occupational Therapy Practice

Framework

The framework is organized into two major sections: the Domain and the Process. Each section contains multiple components that comprehensively describe occupational therapy practice.

Domain of Occupational Therapy

The domain outlines the areas in which occupational therapy practitioners work and the factors that influence client participation. It includes:

- Occupations: Various activities that individuals engage in daily, such as activities of daily living (ADLs), instrumental activities of daily living (IADLs), education, work, play, leisure, and social participation.
- Client Factors: Specific attributes such as values, beliefs, body functions, and body structures that affect occupational performance.
- Performance Skills: Observable elements of action including motor skills, process skills, and social interaction skills.
- Performance Patterns: Habits, routines, roles, and rituals that support or hinder occupational engagement.
- Context and Environment: Physical, social, cultural, temporal, and virtual contexts that impact occupational performance.

Process of Occupational Therapy

The process describes the delivery of occupational therapy services and includes evaluation, intervention, and outcomes. Each phase is integral to effective practice:

- Evaluation: Gathering and interpreting information about the client's needs, strengths, and challenges.
- Intervention: Planning and implementing strategies to support occupational engagement and performance.
- Outcomes: Measuring the success of interventions and the client's progress toward goals.
